Meeting, 15 November 1989, w/atts

1. I have reviewed the "think piece" prepared by the Vice Chairman of the National Intelligence Council and have framed my comments in light of it and the agreed-upon mission of the Agency and the goals and objectives the Agency must pursue to accomplish that mission as set forth in the SPWG memorandum. Without trying to predict specific events or trends, I have tried to focus on the next five-to-ten years and identify as many significant internal and external challenges as possible during that time frame which will affect the Office of Security's ability to contribute to the Agency's mission.

2. Consequently, the following are my thoughts:

INTERNAL° Resource Issues

Resource issues will be the dominant theme for the Agency and OS within the next decade. The ability to allocate existing resources to address new threats will be a major OS challenge.
